STATE NEWS.

A saw-mill belonging to Ewells, five miles west of Deputy, was blown down by the storm yesterday.

Three tramps, in new hats and shoes and silk stockings, are in durance at Fort Wayne on suspicion of burglary.

The storm yesterday blew down a large chimney on the Methodist church at Greensburg, making a large hole in the roof.

The republicans of Jefferson county vesterday afternoon nominated for state senator, Edwin R. Wilson, and for representative, John M. Golden. There is a lively little row in the Presbyterian church at Aurora, a split has occurred, and the courts will probably have to settle which party shall have possession. Sol. Burgess, a conductor on the Frankfort and Kokomo road, fell under a car yesterday at Forest station while making a running switch, cutting both legs off close to his body. He will die. The German Reformed Synod of the northwest convened at Fort Wayne last night. Over 100 delegates are present from Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois, Iowa and Wisconsin. The synod will remain in session during the present week.

William Young, a resident of Carthage, 12 miles northwest of Rushville attempted suicide Tuesday by cutting his throat from ear to ear with a sharp knife. He was living at last accounts but physicians say his recovery is an imposibility.

A young man pretending to hail from Rochester, Indiana, giving the name of Isaac Orr, was jailed at Plymouth yesterday, suspected of having stolen a team, a top-buggy and two sets of harness, which he offered for sale cheap.

Aurelius Smith, an Evansville rough, got jealous of his wife, who is a public character, threw her down, kicked her teeth all outdragged her for half a block by the hair of the head, and cut into both eyes so that she will probably be blind if she survives. He then left for Kentucky.

During the storm at Union City yesterday, Hanover's opera house roof was carried completely off, falling on Wiggs & Wiley's grain house, completely smashing in one side of side of the grain building. J.S. Starbuck & Co.'s butter and egg factory was unroofed. Turpee & Harris's grocery, also their butter and egg house were both unroofed. B. Kirshbaum & Co.'s dry goods and clothing house was also unroofed.

The four o'clock mail train from the eas on the Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati and Indianapolis railroad collided with a switch engine at Farmland yesterday afternoon, do-ing considerable damage, shaking up the passengers, several of whom were slightly njured, among them the roadmaster, A. G. Wright. Mrs. E. Scott, Muncie, had her collar-bone broken, and several others received slight bruises.

John Piatz and L. M. Slusser, two young boys of South Bend, while going to school Monday last, were abducted by men driving through the city with a covered wagon. On reaching North Liberty the boys were instructed to visit stores and steal what they could. On entering a store Platz recognized a man, to whom the story of their abduction was told, and the abductors, finding they were discovered, vamoosed.

FLORIDA FRAUDS. .

What Mr. Dennis Knows About Them. [Special dispatch to the Cincinnati Enquirer.]

Jacksonville, Fla., April 25.—It appears now, by his own confession, that L. G. Den-nis has furnished to the democratic secretary nis has furnished to the democratic secretary of state, Bloxham, a paper giving a full account of the frauds in Alachua county during the late presidential canvass. Dennis, the Little Giant, came here to-day and made a statement, in which he admitted having caused the frauds to be committed, and saw that his orders were carried out. He has been prepared for some ried out. He has been prepared for some time to make this statement, and says he consulted with Hamlin, Butler and some other republicans, and they urged him to wait until the attack on the president's title was fully organized. This statement has been secured from Dennis undoubtedly by a bargain with the state authorities, who bargain with the state authorities, who agreed to nolle pros. several indictments against him if he would confess.

Some of the leading men of Governor Drew's party do not approve this course, but, on the contrary, denounce it. These exposures that Dennis makes it will be impossible to meet, for they are supported by a large number of witnesses. All the papers, it is said, have been sent on to Washington, and Dennis says he has been summoned there, and will leave at once. Copies of the papers are not obtainable, but it is positively known to your correspondent they cover the whole ground. They are to be used only on a certain occasion, the authors assert, for which they were prepared. It may be stated very positively that Conkling for the anti-Hayes men and Colonel Pitton for the democrats have been thoroughly acquainted with this work of ferreting out these sainted with this work of ferreting out these

Ex-Governor Bloxham has also been in communication with those who have been working up the case. There has been a liberal use of money, and this premature disclosure is somewhat mortifying to the interested parties. Dennis, in his remarks to-day, denounced the president in unmeasured

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

The Progress Made Toward Peace. LONDON, April 25.—Negotiations regarding the congress and the withdrawal of the Brit-ish fleet and Russian troops from near Con-stantinople have as yet led to no result, and stantinople have as yet led to no result, and it is considered very unfortunate that Bismarck and Gortschakoff have fallen ill at this critical juncture. In the uncertainty of the issue of the pour parlers, the Russians are doing their best to strengthen their position and advices from various sides concur that there are considerable movements of tropps towards Constantinople, as well as Gallipoli. According to a letter in the Vienna Politisch Correspondence from Schald, about 30 miles from Constantinople, 2,000 sappers and 3,000 infantry are at work there turning and completing the lines thrown up by the Turks, along the whole line from Hademokai to Derkos on the Black sea. Four smaller redoubts have been enlarged, and five new ones constructed. There larged, and five new ones constructed. There still remains a good many of the seige guns belonging to the Turks. These are far from sufficient to arm the extended works, but one hundred heavy guns and thirty mortars are expected from Odessa.

Chicago, April 25.—The police report that the communist element here already numbers the communist element here already numbers several thonsands, and that a large number of drilling places are almost nightly frequented by armed men. There are three halls on the north side having facilities for drilling purposes, and the superintendent of police reports that about four thousand men drill in them every week. In the Seventeenth ward are two halls where they drill. In this ward between four and five hundred men drill three times a week. There are two halls in the fifth ward where large numbers attend the drills which take place three times a week. In the sixth ward 700 men drill in two different halls.

week. In the sixth ward 700 men drill in two different halls.
Superintendent of Police Hickey states that the arms used by the organization are mostly Springfield rifles of the old and new patterns. The most startling fact that the superintendent has discovered is that the communists have sent an agent from this city to New York to purchase arms and amunition. Of this he has no cloubt whatever, having the most convincing evidence of the fact in his possession.

The McLin Developments.

[Washington special to Cincinnati Gazette.] Senator Jones of Florida, referring to the alleged confessions of Florida republican electors, says he believes the confessions are true. He received private advices notifying him that the confessions were to be made. Hewitt's opinion was that the judiciary com-mittee, if the fact of the confession is veriand Dennis, and ascertain the truth. If the committee has not the power the house would give it. He thought the republicans would not oppose this. The Storm of Last Night. CINCINNATI, April 25.—Advices from a umber of points in the interior of this and other states indicate that the storm yesterday and last evening was very general and very severe. In this locality no serious damage ensued beyond the leveling of a number of trees, fences, etc. Tom Webb, a hod carrier, was quite seriously injured by flying bricks from an unfinished building.

A Somerset, Ky., dispatch states that the storm was unequaled for persistency and general fury. It unroofed stores, blew down dwellings, stables, kitchens, trees and fences, blew out windows and in fact did more or less damage to nearly the entire. more or less damage to nearly the entirepopulation of that place. A house onehalf mile from town, occupied by colored people was blown to the ground. There is acre in area had 44 trees uprooted.

The Strike in England.

LONDON, April 25.—Employers in the Nelson and Barringford districts, near Burnley, decided Tuesday to post notices of a ten per cent. reduction. This decision will affect cent. reduction. This decision will affect 20,000 persons. At the same time four weaving masters in Burnley have arranged with their operatives to run four days per week at 6½ per cent. reduction. Twenty-five only out of 100 mills are now running at Burnley, and 10,000 operatives are idle.

The Fountain County Murders.

Thirty-Seven People Charged with Committing Them.

Beginning of the Examinations.

[Correspondence of The Indianapolis News.]

COVINGTON, April 24, 1878. The late murders at Coal creek are now under legal investigation at this place. The preliminary examination began to-day. While there is at the bottom of all the trouble an old labor feud, and sufficient interest is felt in the trial to fill the court room with large crowds of spectators, still it can hardly be said that there is a popular excitement about the case, nor is there, in my opinion, the slightest ground for attempting to make political capital out of it, as I apprehend some partisan journals may do. The fuss, with all its fatal consequences, sprang out of the miners' strike a year ago, and the introduction of colored miners and non-union white laborers, blacklegs, to supply the places of the strikers. A little money on pay day, considerable whisky and the unfortunate presence of arms and gun powder easily brought about the promiscuous shooting of April 16, by which three men, Cozzens, Miles and Cooper were killed. It was just like all mad and rash outpreaks, where smouldering nassions only need killed. It was just like all mad and rash out-breaks, where smouldering passions only need a breath to kindle them into destroying flames. This morning I found some four-teen men under arrest in the court room, ready for examination. The prosecuting attorney, Stilwell, was ably assisted by Geo. McWilliams and Dochterman, of this town, and the defense was formidably fortified by lawyers. Wood, of Tipton; Martin, of this place, and J. B. Mann, of Danville; Illinois. The warrants of arrest were issued by Justice Long, but a change of venue had been obtained to Lucite School. blinois. The warrants of arrest were issued by Justice Long, but a change of venue had been obtained to Justice Schwin, of Wabash township, who presided this morning. The prosecution were evidently determined not to go to trial before Schwin, and after legal skirmishing all the forenoon, moving to nol. pros. the cases, refusing to produce any evidence for the state, etc., the court had no other alternative left but to dismiss the cases and discharge the prisoners. Warrants were ready and they were all immediately rearrested before Justice Long. Another change of venue was taken, and the cause was finally opened before Justice Sloan. These proceedings took all day, and no testimony has yet been heard. To-morrow the mill will grind on, and it may take three or four days to dispose of the charges. In the new list of arrests the number charged with murder in arrests the number charged with murder in the first degree was increased, I believe, to 37 meantime; the vexed question is how the officers shall take care of such a crowd of prisoners. The court granted them bail in $2,000 each, which they all gave. The trial will be resumed to-morrow at 9 o'clock. H.

Sidnam, of Chicago, and Keely, of Indianapolis, began a walking match at Mozart hall last night at 8 o'clock, being started by no less a personage than Governor Williams. They walked, Sidnam until 12:40 and Keely until 1:53 a. m., when they had done 17 and 18 miles respectively, and then rested. At 6:45 Sidnam reappeared and made his first mile in 14:30, his fifth in 13:37. Keely came on at 7:19 a. m. and walked a mile in 14:48, his fifth mile being done in 20:40. At noon when both again retired, Keely had accomplished 33 miles, Sidnam 36. The men were fresh and apparently in good condition, but they will have to beat that walking to accomplish the terms of the match, 200 miles in 72 hours, Keely being allowed 20 miles. County expenses must be reduced.

THE New Orleans collector has been named at last. Smith is the man. Now let the senate confirm him.

It is said that as many as five hundred banks have already announced readiness to resume. The number is exaggerated probably. Make haste slowly is a good motto now. There is no need to anticipate the time fixed by law.

VOORHEES will deliver that speech in favor of repealing the resumption act. He has got it ready and must save it, though resumption is certain to come. He is as conomical as the fellow in the pit of a Dublin theater, who, when a man in the gallery was making a disturbance and the audience cried "put him out," "throw him over," yelled in agonizing tones, "don't waste him, don't waste him, kill a fiddler with him."

THE county has lost a handsome sum of money by the recent sale of bonds. Two offers at 98 cents were refused. But when three months' interest had accrued, the bonds were sold for 98 cents and a commission of one and a half per cent. paid besides. So not less than three per cent, or nearly $6,000 was lost to the county. To put the mildest interpretation on it, a more blundering piece of business never was transacted. No wonder county expenses are high, in hands that mismanage in that

THE confession of McLin, the member of the Florida returning board, is just what might be expected from such a scoundrel. His weak attempt to excuse himself will deceive nobody, for his mo tive is made plain. If he had received an office his mouth would have stayed shut. It is another evidence of the depravity of carpet bagism, and the only thing to be regretted is that he can't be put into the penitentiary for a term of years, in which to further analyze the motives that impelled him. Se far as the effect is concerned, if his statements are true, the president's title is not changed. He holds the place by virtue of the decision of the electoral commission, which decided that it could not go behind the returns legally made. If McLin was a forger and thief, it ought to be the worse for McLin. The culpability of the president consists only in his weakness and folly in appointing such a man to office.

For an affair which may end in a war, and which really seems fated to be forced round all the opportunities of agreement this Anglo-Russian difference about a cor ference or congress, or about one as a preliminary of the other, presents more points of eloborate contention, more gradations of provocation, more puerile anxiety to "keep even," than any it has ever been our fortune to read of, except in "Touchstone's" quarrel with the courtier about the cut of his beard. Both have got along through the earlier stages, from the "quip modest" and "retort courteous" to the "re-proof valiant" in Salisbury's circular, and now the "counter-check quarrelsome" is only held off from the "lie direct," by Bismarck's quaint device of withdrawing both parties by even stages from the neighborhood of Constantinople. And here the same puerile fear that one will get two minutes or two hundred yards advantage of the other keeps both in a fret, and both just where they have been all the time. England won't sail back ten miles unless Russia will march back five. She won't go to Besika bay unless Russia will go to Adrianople. Russia won't go more than twenty-four hours away unless England will match her hour for hour, counting steam against legs and knots against versts. A commission of astronomers will have to be called to settle distances, and of international lawyers to settle the mode of applying them to the

It certainly looks like boys' play, though everybody sees that it is playing with fire in a powder house. Russia's consent to a congress and a submission of the San Stefano treaty to it, with the reservation that she wouldn't mind anything the congress decided unless she chose, is another bit of boy's play. It would be supremely ridiculous if there wasn't a bloody meaning under all this trifling. The attempt to effect a withdrawal of the two forces by even steps from Constantinople, reminds one of the agreement between a noted Indian fighter of the early days of the northwest and a redoubted warrior, who met by accident on the bank of a creek during a battle to wash out their dirty rifles. Neither had any other weapon, both were unready to fight, and they agreed to "keep step" in cleaning; each should wash exactly as the other did, dry out his rifle with the same movement, and get ready to load and shoot with rigid exactness of action, but that done and the time for shooting come, each was to do his best and kill if he could. The white, Adam Poe, we believe, "primed" his rifle by striking the butt on the ground, and got the winning shot. That advantage is what each of the eastern contestants is after. They must withdraw so exactly that neither can get a moment's start, and each is afraid to start for fear of some dodge that the other has managed to have. Each thinks the other will "prime" and get the first shot, by some trick like the white man's with the In-

Contraction Again.

The News does not hold itself bound to reply to all the questions which may be asked by its contemporaries, nor refute all the false statements they make in reply to its articles on finance. Its space is not unlimited, and it can not always give attention to the subject on call; and besides, it does not always receive that treatment from the paper maniacs which would entitle them to the highest consideration. The Sun, of this city, for instance, is constantly calling on us to give attention to some particular topic; taunts and gibes if we do not respond as soon as it thinks we should, and swells and boasts of our inability to answer, etc. And yet when we take up a point it has iterated as of supreme importance, it never has the grace to place our articles before its readers.

Some time since The News stated that the volume of all that could in any proper commercial sense be called money or currency, was larger than it was in 1865. To this the Sun responded by de-manding our figures. We gave them from the official reports of the government, and presented three tables of comparison: (1) the currency as we defined it, including the non-interestbearing paper in actual use; (2) this currency with the addition of all legal-tender bonds and coin; and (3) only the legal tender money, which the Sun has repeatedly declared to be the only real money. The Sun promised, when we should furnish the figures, to prove a contraction to the extent of over a thousand millions of dollars. How does it respond? Not by copying our article and pointing out its errors, but by copying a part of one paragraph without its explanation, and then constructing a table for comparison which includes interest-bearing bonds that were not a legal-tender. It places in its table $850,000,000 of 7-30 bonds, and proposes to prove that they did circulate in business channels and were sometimes called currency! Of course the trouble all around grows out of the undefined and uncertain use of the term "currency." As Perry says, this term is used, "sometimes as including both money and those instruments of credit which pass from hand to hand by endorsement or mere delivery, and sometimes in the restricted sense already noticed as synonymous with paper money." The News is accustomed to using the term in the restricted and proper ense. And in this sense it includes coin when that is a part of the circulating medium. In the larger and looser sense it includes all coupon bonds, drafts, certified checks and other paper which may pass from hand to hand in trade and which may be deposited in bank and credited as "current funds." On this usage The News could offset the Sun's figures of 7.30 bonds with $820,000,000 of coupon bonds outstanding at the beginning of the year. The Sun may be able to deceive its readers in the rural districts, but business men know better. Coin, greenbacks and bank notes are the real current money of commerce and the only basis of honest comparison. And of these The News has given the official figures, and shown that the currency has not been contracted to

A Scoundrel's Confession.

An Inside View of the Florida Election.

The President Denounced for Abandoning the Criminals.

The following is the confession of Samuel B. McLin, of the Florida board of canvassers for the presidential election, alluded to in B. McLin, of the Florida board of canvassers for the presidential election, alluded to in yesterday's dispatches:

As a member of the late State board of canvassers of the state of Florida I feel impelled by a seuse of duty to myself and justice to others to make the following statement: At the time the canvass was made I was not at any time conscious of acting otherwise than right and proper. I entered upon the canvass with the conviction that it was my privilege and duty, in a political sense, to give the benefit of every doubt in favor of the republican party. I felt that when a question could be decided either way without doing violence to a jublic sense of justice it was fairly allowable in politics that I should always fean to my own party and give my decision in its favor, even at the hazard of straining a point. At no time did I feel that I occupied the position of a judge charged with the duty of a strict and nice weighing and balancing of all the evidence presented. Looking back now to that time I feel there was a combination of influences that must have operated most powerfully in blinding my judgment and swaying my action. I had been for many years, and was at the time of the canvass, a very active partisan. I sincerely thought that our state and the nation would suffer irreparable injury if the democratic party were to obtain the presidency and the policy of hatred to the negro should obtain control at Washington. It was the common and unanimous talk, also, that the very existence of men in the south who had upheld the republican party depended upon the election of Mr. Hayes. Mr. Hayes would sustain them throughout the south, while Mr. Tilden would crush them. I was shown numerous telegrams aidressed to Gov. Steans and others, from the leaders of the republican party in the north, insisting that the salvation of the country depended upon the vote of Florida being cast for Hayes. These telegrams came from those to whom I had been accustomed to defer; the chairman of the nacustomed to defer; the ch securing the victory for air. Inayes, Followin, these telegrams, trusted northern republican partienders and personal friends of Mr. Hayes arrived in Florida as rapidly as the railroads could bring them. I was surrounded by these men, who were ardeat republicans, and especially by friends of Conserval Hayes.

lenders and personal friends of Mr. Hayes arrived in Florida as rabidly as the railroads could bring them. I was surrounded by these men, who were ardeat republicans, and especially by friends of Governor Hayes. One gentleman particularly, Governor Noyes, of Ohio, was understood to represent him and speak with authority of a warm personal friend commissioned with power to act in his behalf. These men referred to the general destruction of the country should Mr. Tilden be elected; the intense anxiety of the republican party of the north, and their full sympathy with us. I cannot say how far my action may have been influenced by the intense excitement that prevailed around me, or how far partisan zeal may have led me into error, neither can I say how far my course was influenced by the promises made by Noyes, that if Mr. Hayes became president I should be rewarded certainly. These influences must have had a strong control over my judgment and action. Reviewing my action at this distance of time, with all calmness—with my ardor cooled and my partisan zeal chilled by the president, who has basely betrayed and mereilessly destroyed the republican party of the south and crushed the very men who did so much for his election, I am persuaded that the Florida can vass was not conducted with that cool, calm judgment and honest, unbiased decision that should have characterized a proceeding involving such vast and important interests. Instead of this I now see that the whole proceeding went through upon the highest wave of political excettement; that partisan feeling, stimulated to the utmost by the most powerful agencies, usurped the place of reason and sound judgment, and political expediency ruled the hour. A large number of precincts were either contested by the democratic or republican party; voluminous testimony was filed, and the lawyers of both parties argued, each for their side of the issue, that it was the duty of the board to throw out and not include in the count, precincts on the government of the board in the cluded in the count. The fraud committed in this precinct was not shown to the board by the democratic lawyers, although a contest was made and much attention given to this precinct; but I have recently learned from the republican leader of that county that after the returns had been brought into Gainesville, the county seat, 219 votes were added to the returns by the inspectors and clerk of said precinct. In Leon county, 74 small republican ballots were stuffed into the ballot-box at precinct No. 9, yet it was not made to appear to the satisfaction of the democratic member of the board that these were stuffed into the ballot-box at precinct No. 9, yet it was not made to appear to the satisfaction of the democratic member of the board that these were stuffed into the box. I had seen Joreph Bower, one of the inspectors have tickets similar to them a few days before the election, and cautioned him against their use, unless they were generally adopted. I afterwards learned that he had given them up. In Jefferson county, in a certain precinct in which Mr. J. Bell was inspector, one hundred votes were surreptitiously added to the ballots and counted. No charge was made as to this act before the board. The confession of J. Bell, since made to me, discloses the fact that had the 219 votes fraudulently added to the Archer return, and the 74 votes stuffed in the box in Leon county, and in Jefferson county, agarcgating 334 votes, been rejected, and the democratic rejected procincts which were excluded for irregularity and illegality contrary to the decision of the supreme court, been retained and counted, Mr. Tilden would have carried the state. The conclusion, therefore, is irresistible that Mr. Tilden was entitled to the electoral vote of Florida, and not Mr. Hayes. In making this statement my motives will doubtless be questioned by many, but the facts will stand alone as the truth without any more motives to sustain them. I mm free to admit that viewing this as I now do, and reamembering that Mr. Hayes has denied the

The Light Infantry in Terre Haute—The Reception, the Parade and the Ball. [Correspondence of The Indianapolis News.]

TERRE HAUTE, April 25, 1878. If ever the Indianapolis light infantry had a full dress parade in any other than rainy weather this bedraggled correspondent never saw it. The train that landed them in Terre weather this bedraggled correspondent never saw it. The trais that landed them in Terre Haute at 3:15 p. m. yesterday stopped in a rain, not strong but wet. The Terre Haute light guards were in line and in waiting, infantry and artillery, the latter consisting of a Gatling gun. The procession filed off, the Indianapolis drum corps under Major Pafflin leading the way, and being a novelty it attracted a large share of attention. Following came the Indianapolis infantry, after them a brass band, after that the Terre Haute infantry and after that the Gatling battery, full rigged and manned. It was a fine sight, the blue and red and gray and white of the two companies, and the streets were lined with people. The rain confining itself to fitful droppings, soft and not numerous, the companies paraded through two or three of the principal streets, not an extensive parade but sufficient to make them like mermaids, fair above but wet and slimy beneath. The bugle drill of the Indianapolis infantry, The bugle drill of the Indianapolis infantry, whereby they maneuver by the bugle-call instead of by word of command, was a "point" over the Terre Haute company, but whether the blues execute their movewhether the blues execute their move-ments with any greater precision than the grays could not be judged of. The afternoon program included a drill and dress parade but the contined wet weather had so softened the parade grounds that after marching to the armory, ranks were broken—and they haven't been mend-ed yet—the indianapolis boys going home in quartettes and squads on different trains, and the Terre Haute boys have not yet resumed regular life. Above is a hall 100 by 60 feet. Last night the hall fairly glistened with its wax coating. At one end was the stages—this was formarly. Dowling hall, the with its wax coating. At one end was the stage—this was formerly Dowling hall—the front part of which for the time was made a bower of plants, vines and flowers; hanga bower of plants, vines and flowers; hanging over above were immense flags looped. The walls were tastefully decorated with evergreens, the windows covered with red, white and blue lambrequins, and the panels between filled with muskets bound with wreaths and draped with flags. Overhead from the center chandelier in all directions stretched red, white and blue streamers. In the gallery, the railing of which afforded a handsome complement in profuse decoration to the stage at the other profuse decoration to the stage at the other end of the room, were two bands, one, Mil-ler's city band from Indianapolis, which un-dertook to play the thirty-two dances which the ball program called for.

THE BALL.

In describing a military ball it is proper to use the line about the beauty and the chiv-

There were gathered there the beauty and the chivalry.

There were about 150 of the beauty—I call them all beauties—"the ladies, God bless 'em," and about the same number of the chivalry. This does not include the plain citizen who was represented by some of Terre Haute's foremost men in goodly number. Further than this I can not describe the ball. Further than this I can not describe the ball. It was a maddening crowd, a whirling mixture of beauty, chivalry and plain citizen, which presented, in fact, changes of color sufficient to call for that fresh and orginal simile of the kaleidescope. The toilets of the ladies were unusually rich. One of them, not a resident of the place, spoke of the great number of diamonds worn by the Terre Haute ladies. It was true, and they wore dresses which did not look poorly beside the diamonds.

The supper was set on the stage, "half revealed and half concealed" by the decorations. The door was thrown open at 11 o'clock, and the tables underwent the process of demolition and reconstruction. The supper was fine enough to have been the main feature of the entertainment. It was finer than many a banquet where the table is the be all and the end all. The doors were thrown open at eleven o'clock, and without any cessation in the dance, and without-confusion the people passed in, had seats with The supper was set on the stage, "half refusion the people passed in, had seats with plenty of elbow room, abundant attention from well-bred waiters, a bill of fare, which thoroughly tested, would make the tester think he saw several military companies and was engaging them all single handed. Indianapolis men were quartered at the Terre Haute house and were not allowed to spend a cent, from boot black to button hole bouquet. Throughout the whole entertainment there was an ease and elegance which on such occasions is usually considerable the statement of the construction of conspicuous by its absence. Without exaggeration it may be said that this event cannot be forgotton from the perfect not be forgotton from the perfect success of every detail, the elaborate care manifested and from the heartiness and good will with which it was extended. The International Sunday School Conven

The International Sunday School Convention.

The delegates to the International Sunday school convention, which met last week in Atlanta, Ga., returned home yesterday. All speak in terms of praise of the manner in which they were received and treated during their stay. Col. J. W. Ray gave a News reporter this morning a short account of the refusal to give Rev. Mr. Arnett, of Ohio, a seat in the convention on account of his color. By some means Mr. Whidby, president of the Georgia state convention, was made chairman of the committee on reception and the names of delsgates were sent to him. To Mr. Arnett's name the initials "A. M. E." were applied. Upon his own volition, without consulting another member of the committee, Whidby wrote back, telling Arnett that such was the state of feeling down there that he had better not come, that it would be prejudicial to the interests of the convention, etc. Knowledge of Whidby's letter did not get back to Atlanta till the Monday preceding the meeting of the convention. A respective for the Atlanta Constitution asked get back to Atlanta till the Monday preceding the meeting of the convention. A reporter for the Atlanta Constitution asked Messrs. Peltz and Parsons, members of the committee on delegations, what anthority, if any, existed for Whidby's action, and was told there was none whatever; that there would be no distinction on account of age, race, sex, or color. This was printed, and an editorial also, denouncing the course pursued by Whitby as unwarranted and misrepretenting the facts. "That these statements relenting the facts. "That these statements were true," Mr. Ray continued, "the action of the convention is evidence. A delegate from Texas, six feet three in hight, and from Texas, six feet three in hight, and black as the ace of spades, (though how the colonel knew the color of spades the reporter can't imagine,) was admitted without a word of protest just as Mr. Arnett would have been. The convention was as harmonious as though it had been held in Indianapolis, and every one word that was uttered about the war or or southern policy cane from delegates from the southern states themselves. The convention did more good than Hayes's visit to produce a beter feeling between the two sections of country. After the first day when the novelty of the visit had worn off there was the most cordial feeling existing on all sides. And don't you neglect to mention that the Constitution published just as full and satisfactory reports of the convention as the press of any other city in which it has met."

A Rare Sight.

A Rare Sight.

Those who saw the rainbow yesterday, near sunset, saw what is hardly less rare than a lunar rainbow, that is a solar bow, perfect in outline, and vivid in color, from one end to the other. Ninetynine times in a hundred there is a break somewhere, some of the lines are defective, the ends are vivid and the center barely visible, or some other defect mars the general effect. But vesterday the barely visible, or some other defect mars the general effect. But yesterday the cuive was almost a complete semi-circle—a phenomenon possible only when the sun is on the horizon—and from south to north, through its whole success, it was without a break or spot, or faded edge, or lacking hue, and nearly as vivid in the center of the arch as at its base. The seven colors—there are really but three, the others are tints made by mixing—were as vividly traceable in this natural spectrum as in that which philosophers make with a prism, and that is not usual in rainbows.

A Vindication of the Sentinel.

A Vindication of the Sentinel.

Several days ago the Sentinel set up an awful howl at Judge Gresham for the appointment of H. C. Adams, as provisional assignee of the dry goods firm of Dreher & Bollinger, charging that the judge rode roughshod over the rights of creditors, rejecting their petition for the appointment of some other man, and a great lot of other matters equally as grievous. Well, the election of an assignee, in the regular way, came up yesterday, and the singular unanlmity with which the same creditors came forward and elected Mr. Adams, must have well night crushed the judge, or will do so when he hears of it. The Sentinel seems to be a little bit unfortunate in its vindications. This morning it takes back all it said about Messrs. Gresham, Jordan and Adams, says it never meant it, etc. never meant it, etc.

Fire Insurance.

The twelfth annual meeting of the national board of underwriters was held in New York yesterday. About forty-five companies were represented. The president's report states that the manufacture and sale of low-grade oils is increasing to an alarming extent. He considers the outlook not flattertent. He considers the outlook not flattering: The prevailing rates are too low. The report of the committee on statistics is very interesting. A table of 258 American companies and 18 foreign companies show a considerable decline in receipts for premiums and an advance in the amount of losses paid. The amount of capital employed in 1873 was $66,826,818, against $56,623,440 in the tables other previous year. On this capital the dividends of the year averaged for New York state companies, 14.2 per cent., for other state companies, 11.88 per cent. The amount of premiums received shows a decrease of $727,640 as compared with 1876, and losses an increase of $2,983,786. Net profits on capital employed by American companies 4.85 per cent.

It does indicate an improvement in the times, and of returning improvement in the times, and of returning confidence and prosperity. The present state of business is significant. The volume of trade is growing larger, and the quality of goods manufactured and purchased seems to be different. Merchants are buying earefully, and though at small figures, yet liberally and intending to pay. Yet business goes on as it has done the last two months, and the cood times that have begun will continue till. good times that have begun will consinue till we reach a good and safe condition.

Pardons and their Effect.

Pardons and their Effect.

There are still pending in the United States circuit court several cases on internal revenue gaugers and storekeepers' bonds. It will be remembered that the principals in these bonds were indicted, convicted, sentenced and pardoned. In the suits on the bonds the sureties pleaded in bar the conviction and pardon of their principals. The sufficiency of this plea has been argued before United States judges at St. Louis, and Chicago, as well as here. Last week Judge Treat, at St. Louis, held, in a case on a storekeeper's bond, that the pardon of the principal in the criminal case, covers not only the criminal offense, but also all damages consequent thereon; that the pardon is a condonation of the offense, and is a forgiveness donation of the offense, and is a forgiveness of all further liability, criminal or civil, and discharges the sureties. The judge notes the difference between this class of cases in England and America, a contrary doctrine pre-vailing in England. This decision establish-es a new principle, and as the government has large interests involved, this case, or some similar one, will be taken to the U. S. supreme court, for final determination.

MARRIAGE OF INFANT WARD DISCHARGES GUARDIANS.

Francis V. Haines et al vs. The State ex rel, Mary J. Sharpe et al. Hamilton C. C. Judgment reversed. Howk, J.

The marriage of any female ward to a person of full age shall operate as a legal discharge of the guardianship, and the guardian shall be authorized to account to the wife, with the assent of the husband. (2 R. S. p. 591, see. 12.) The infant wife may lawfully account and make a valid settlement with her guardian, and she may authorize her husband to make the settlement. A payment made by a guardian to the husband of an infant wife, with her assent and by her direction, is good as to her. (46 Ind., 235.) With the consent and under the direction of the wife, the husband being of full age, may make a full settlement with such guardian.

Statute of frauds—Part Performance.

STATUTE OF FRAUDS-PART PERFORMANCE. Elijah Wiley vs Collins Bradley, Switzerland C.
C. Judgment affirmed. Biddle C J.
A set out fruit trees on B's land under a specifil contract by which he was to care for the trees while they lived and have a share of the truit raisad while they fived and have a share of the fruit raised thereon. Subsequently, just as the trees were beginning to bear, B sold the land and A brought this suit to recover damages. Held. That part performance took the contract out of the statute of frauds requiring it to be in writing. B was benefitted by the part performance, and an action will lia upon the implied promise to pay, independent of the special contract. [13 Ind, 1, 35 Ind 1; 43 Ind, 163.]

PROMISORY NOTE-PRINCIPAL AND SURETY-EVI-DENCE.

DENCE.

Elisha B. Milsm, ex., etc., vs. Martha A. Milam.

Knox C. C. Affrmed. Perkins, J.

A was a principal on a promissory note. B was his surety. Subsequently A died. Held: that it was competent for the proper court to allow the whole claim against the estate of the decedent, A. In a case of this kind it was competent for the court to permit the plaintiff to testiff to the loss of the note upon which the claim was founded, and that it was lost by her and out of her possession. The statute of this state did not intend to narrow the common law rules as to the admissability of witnesses to testify.

STATUTE OF FRAUDS—INSURANCE LAW.

Mary F. Langford vs. John B. Freeman. Putnam. C. C. Judgment reversed. Worden J.

Held, (1) A contract to answer for the debt of another, must not only be in writing, but it must be based upon a sufficient consideration to support it and yet not furnish a ground of action if not reduced to writing. (45 Ind 481; 54 Ind 178.) The receipt by a mother of money upon the policy of insurance on the life of her son is not a good consideration for such promise, if it does not appear that the money did not properly belong to her. (2) When a new agreement does not put an end to the original debt and extinguish it, it will be regarded as collateral and within the statute of frauds if not reduced to writing. (54 Ind. 178; 37 Ind. 264; 55 Ind. 11.) If a mother promises a creditor of a deceased son to pay his claim, such promise is within the statute, as the payment of the claim would not protect her from liability to the estate of deceased for assets in her hands. (Thorp on verbal agreement, sec. 533.) A policy holder has a right to surrender the policy of insurance upon his life, payable to himself, and take out another payable to himself, and take out another payable to himself, and take out another payable to his mother. If she had no insurable interest in his life, the insurance company was the only one who could make any question in that respect. STATUTE OF FRAUDS—INSURANCE LAW.

BILL OF EXCEPTIONS. BILL OF EXCEPTIONS.

William B. Walls vs. the Anderson, Lebanon & St. Louis railroad company. Clinton C. C. Judgment affirmed. Howk, J.

(1.) In this case it is insisted that the bill of exceptions is not true; but to us, under the law, baing properly in the record, it imparts "absolute verity." (2.) The matter assigned as error in this court should have been assigned as a cause for a now trial. A cause for a new trial can not be assigned as error in this court. (Busk. Prac., p. 126, and authorities cited; 57 Ind., 188.)

A Golden Wedding.

A Golden Wedding.

The fiftieth anniversay of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Michael G. Bright was celebrated at their residence, No. 292 North Meridian street, yesterday afternoon, where they received the congratulations of a host of friends. The presents were chiefly of flowers, though several ornaments and coins of gold were contributed, The reception lasted from 1 to 6 o'clock, and among the callers were many friends who had also nearly reached the length of years enjoyed by this aged couple. Mr. M. G. Bright and Miss Betsey Brooks Stelle were married at Shelbyville, Kentucky, April 24, 1828, and began housekeeping in Madison, Indiana, where they resided until 1868, when they moved to this city. Mr. Bright was born in New York and came to Madison in 1820, where he practiced law until 1865, when the was stricken with paralysis and since which time he has been an invalid. He is in his 76th year and his wife is nearly 70. Twelve children were born unto them, five of whom, R. J. Bright, William Bright, Mrs. Griffin, and Mrs. Nichol of this city and Mrs. Korbly of Madison are still living and together with 26 grandchildren were present at the aniversary celebration yesterday. The golden wedding was followed by a party in the evening given to the grandchildren.

Concert Saloons Again.

The concert saloon business is starting up again, and before July there will probably be as many musical drinkeries in the city as last as many musical drinkeries in the city as last summer. Last evening a reporter sauntered into one of these places where beer and beauty mingle, and listened to the song of a robust syren, clothed in high-heeled gilt gaiters, very long and exceedingly striped stockings, and a necklace of Milton gold. A dissolute piano accompanied her vocal effort, in which she asserted, with numerous heart-wringing and ear-stabbing quavers, "Me heart, me he-a-rt, me he-a-rt is breaking, For me child, me che-ild, me che-il-d is stole away."

County Bonds Once More.

In your issue of a few days ago Mr. E. F. Claypool is reported as saying, "He knew the price [38] less 1½ per cent. commission) was just as favorable as could be obtained at that time or since. Indeed, it has been impossible to dispose of the entire issue at 38 cents; and if Mr. Lemon or anybody else think they are such a desirable investment, the rest of the bonds can easily be obtained by applying for them." Mr. Claypool further says, "We wouldn't do it again for any less (than 2½ per cent.) money."

wouldn't do it again for any less (than 2½ per cent.) money."
How would it strike the mind of the average tax payer of Marion county if, alongside of the foregoing statement of Mr. Claypool there was placed a statement to the effect that on Monday last a responsible party offered 97 cents on the spot for the remainder of said bonds; and after two days' delay for accommodation of Claypool and Stoddard, said Claypool and Stoddard were anuounced to be the purchasers at 98—less one-half of one per cent. commission? There may come a time when patience with such practice will cease to be a virtue on the part of

It is understood that the remaining $20,000

It is understood that the remaining $20,000 have been sold to Claypool & Stoddard. The terms of the sale can not be learned, further terms of the sale can not be learned, further than that the price was 98, the same as the other lot. The commissioners, none of them are in the city, and the clerk of the board said no record of the sale was made. He supposed Claypool & Stoddard received the same commission—one and one-half per cent.—as for the sale of the rest of the issue, but was not positive, as no allowance had been made. A commissioner stated yesterday that the commission was one-half of one per cent.

THE STATE HOUSE.

Judge Elliott Sustains a Demurrer to the Complaint and Unhorses the Architects —Their Future Action not Settled.

-Their Future Action not Settled.

In the suit of Samuel B. Tibbits, a taxpayer of Jennings county, against the board of state house commissioners and architect May, for an injunction to restrain them from carrying out the contract entered into between the defendants for the erection of a state house, Judge Elliott this morning sustained a demurrer to the complaint. The following is the decision of the court in the maatter:

The only integer table, the alginitial claims in

The only interest which the plaintiff claims in the adoption of a plan and selection of an architect for the new state house is as a property owner and tax-payer of the state.

The complaint, in general terms and without much particularity, charges the commissioners with fraud.

much particularity, charges the commissioners with fraud.

It is doubtful whether the allegations of fraud are sufficient—Curry vs Keyser, 30 and. 214; 34 Ind. 56. But even if the allegations of fraud are sufficient, they fail to give the plaintiff a cause of action. for the complaint does not show any damage resulting to him from the alleged fraud. "Fraud without damage gives no cause of action." Bradshaw vs Record, 84 Ind. 118; Wiley vs Howard, 15 Ind. It does not appear that the plaintiff or any other tax payer has suffered, or will suffer any loss. So far as the facts stated in the complaint affect the sufficiency of May's plan, they show that as a nended by Wilson, the plan is a good and capable one. It is not shown that a better plan than May's could have been obtained; it is not asserted that any competitor offered a better one. If the plaintiff interest in this matter was immediate and direct, he could not recover without showing that dacaage resulted to him from the alleged fraud. It must be inferred from the facts stated that May's plan, as amended and improved by Wilson, is a proper one, and if so no tax payer can suffer loss by its adoption and use," but to compel the commissioners to preceed to reinvestigate would create additional expense, and increase, not lighten, the tax payers' burden.

As to the alleged wrong already done in paying Wilson for working on May's plan, I need only say it is too late to remedy that by injunction. (Markel vs. Board, 55 Ind. 185.)

The complaint charges that the commissioners did, not examine all the plans submitted by comediance.

Wilson for working on May's plan, I need only say it is too late to remedy that by injunction. (Markel vs. Board, 55 Ind. 185)

The complaint charges that the commissioners did. not examine all the plans submitted by competing architects. In a former case I held they were bound to examine all plans. I am well convinced that the former ruling was right. But what loss has the plaintiff suffered because of the omission to examine all the plans? He claims no interest as a competing architect, and as a tax payer can suffer no loss from the omission to make the examination. It is not averred that a better plan than May's was offered; it is not alleged that a better oase could have been obtained; on the contrary, the inference from the facts pleaded is that May's plan as amended and improved by Wilson, is a good and complete one. If the commissioners secured the proper plan, although their acts may not have been in accordance with the statute, no tax-payer can be the loser. I fully recognize the rule that a tax-payer may have an injunction to restrain the collection of any illegal tax or the illegal expenditure of public money. But in order to entitle him to this remedy he must show by facts, not conclusions that he is likely to suffer loss by increased taxation. There is no such showing here. The tax will be levied and collected, whether May's plan or that of some one else be adopted. The particular plan chosen does not, and can not under the law increase the plaintiff's taxes. Whatever plan is adopted the expense of erecting the building is limited, and this limitation must form part of all contracts, and the taxes of the plaintiff can not be under the facts stated, affected by the cholec of plans. Nor is there any threatened appropriation of money to illegal purpose. The complaint shows that they are proposing to divert the money to an illegal purpose.

The theory upon which a tax-payer is allowed to maintain a action against public officers to enforce the collection of taxes or the illegal appropriation of public having their taxes increased.

In this case the plaintiff is invoking the exercise of an extraordinary remedy, is asking that the "strong arm of the courts" be laid upon the proceedings of the defendants. It is well settled that in such cases a clear right must be shown, and danger of serious loss made to appear. The demurrer must be sustained for the reasons that the plaintiff does not show sufficient interest to entitle him to sue, and does not show that any loss to him will result from the acts complained of.

A consultation of the relaxed architects and will result from the acts complained of.

A consultation of the rejected architects and their attorneys was held this morning for the purpose of deciding upon a plan for further action, but at noon, when a News reporter happened in on them, nothing had been decided, and he was told that nothing would be before night. Judge Elliott said that probably amended complaints would be presented until they got a case to stick on paper and then it might come to trial.

A Physician's Kindness.

A few evenings ago a little colored orphan boy, was playing near the street car track on North Illinois street. He was too careless and a passing street car struck him, breaking one of his legs in two places. He was carried into a drug store and Dr. Parvin was summoned. The little fellow had no money or friends, but the doctor ordered a hack, went with him to the city hospital and satup with him all night long. A case of disinterested generosity does not occur every day and is so rare that it is well worth noting.

Gambling Suppressed in Massachusetts.

Boston Letter.]

[Boston Letter.]

The legislature has actually passed a law making it an offense against the dignity of the commonwealth for anybody to make a bet a la pool, on the result of an election, horse race, base ball game or other matter of chance—and thereby hangs a tale. The wicked members of the legislature who represent the cities and large towns, seeing that the superior virtue of the rural districts overwhelmed them in favor of the bill tacked on to it an amendment providing that the penalty portion of it shall also be applicable to all games of chance. After the bill was finally passed, it was discovered by the church people that "grab boxes," chances in prizes, etc., are now "against the law." The gamblers at horse races say it is a poor rule that don't work both ways, and that gambling at church fairs is just as wicked as betting on the superior speed of a favorite horse.

To urge upon the owners of property the wisdom of fire insurance is a sheer waste of words, as everybody knows its value, the necessity of it, and the good which is derived from it. The main object in considering this question is the responsibility of the company, as to its prompt and fair payment of losses, and whether its premium rate is a fair one. These questions settled, all one has to do is to submit their risk to an agent and have their policy written. It is conceded by all who are acquainted with it, that the Franklin Fire insurance company, located at the corwho are acquainted with it, that the Frankin Fire insurance company, located at the cor-ner of Circle and Market streets, this city, possesses all the qualifications to answer the above questions in a satisfactory manner, and the large amount of business (which is stead-ily increasing) transacted by them is a guar-antee that the public appreciate good sound fire insurance.
